Ms. Whitfield,

Atty. Elijah Thorne signed the Time-Limited Demand on John Doe's bodily injury claim today, and it went out this afternoon by certified mail, return receipt requested, No. 9589 0710 5270 0412 7731 58. The complete Demand Package is attached to this email as well: the demand letter and Exhibits A through J, 81 pages, Bates LSH-DEM-000001 through LSH-DEM-000081.

The letter demands the $10,000.00 per-person bodily injury limit of policy KMI-PA-7731045 and sets out its terms in section 6. Those terms are Atty. Thorne's and are not negotiable by me. The acceptance window runs thirty days from Keystone Mutual's receipt of the certified mailing, not from the date of the letter.

So that both files carry the same date, please confirm by reply: the date Keystone received the certified mailing, the date you received this email and its attachment, and that the package you have is complete at 81 pages, Exhibits A through J. Any question about the terms, the amount or an extension should go to Atty. Thorne directly at ethorne@lshlawgroup.example; I will route anything that reaches me to him the same day.

Thank you,
Case Manager · LSH Law Group · (555) 010-4000, ext. 214

Confirming receipt. The certified envelope was delivered to our Riverton claims office this morning, July 22, and I signed for it. Your email of July 20 with the attachment is in the file as well; the PDF opens at 81 pages and the index runs A through J, so I show it complete.

I have logged the demand as received 07/22/2026 and diaried it for evaluation. I will need to review the imaging and the treatment records before I can respond to the number. I may come back to you about the time frame.

4. What the acknowledgment establishes, and what it does not

- It fixes the start date from the carrier's own writing. Keystone states that it received the certified mailing on 07/22/2026 and that the package is complete at 81 pages, Exhibits A through J. That matches the signed return receipt. The thirty-day window therefore closes 08/21/2026, docketed with reminders at 14 and 7 days and on the day.
- It closes the "we never got all of it" argument. The adjuster confirmed the page count and the exhibit range, so a later claim that an exhibit was missing is answered by her own email.
- It is not an extension, and it is not an answer on the number. "I may come back to you about the time frame" is a request flagged, not a request granted. Only Atty. Thorne can move the date or the terms.
- The Case Manager gave nothing away. No valuation, no view of the offer, no agreement to anything: the email asked for dates and a page count and pointed every question about terms to the attorney.

> Action taken the same day. Acknowledgment forwarded to Atty. Thorne 07/22/2026 at 9:21 a.m., flagged "adjuster raises time frame — your call". Communications Log updated with both emails, quoted. Docket entry 08/21/2026 created from the receipt date, not the mailing date. No reply sent on the time frame.

Why it is converted at all. An email thread lives in a mailbox: it is not on the case file, a colleague covering the file cannot find it, and it is not on the Backup Drive. Converted to a memorandum, filed under the firm's naming convention and backed up, the carrier's own confirmation of the date that starts the clock is part of the case — and the date on the docket can be proved by the record, not by memory.
